Cameron is an Associate in our Capital Markets and Securities Law Group. He is developing a broad securities practice with a particular interest in mergers and acquisitions, corporate finance, and securities regulatory matters.

Prior to graduating from Queen's University Faculty of Law, he earned a Bachelor of Business Administration (finance concentration) with distinction from Brock University. He also participated in an international exchange at the University of Gothenburg in Sweden. Cameron has diverse employment experience, holding previous roles in the financial services and public service sector.

During law school, Cameron participated in student leadership and advocated for his peers while on the Law Students' Society. He also joined the Queen's Business Law Clinic to assist not-for-profit and start-up businesses. Cameron displayed an interest in advancing his negotiation skills and received the Queen's Law Prize in Advanced Dispute Resolution, ranking highest in the class. In his spare time, Cameron enjoys playing hockey, travelling, and spending time outdoors exploring new hobbies like wakesurfing.
