Laheen recently completed her second year of law school at the University of Windsor's Faculty of Law.

Prior to law school, Laheen graduated from McMaster University with a degree in Justice, Political Philosophy, and Law, and a minor in Biology. Laheen's passion for advocacy has been a driving force in her work. During her second year of law school, Laheen was a member of Windsor Law's Wilson Moot team. Laheen is also a research assistant for the Civil Procedure and Practice in Ontario textbook which was developed to improve access to justice for litigants in civil matters. Outside of law school, Laheen has volunteered with numerous charities and non-profit organizations focused on improving the lives of members of equity-deserving groups. In her free time, Laheen enjoys going to museums, playing ball hockey, and spending time with her family and dog.
